TARIFF LEGISLATION

TILL AMOUNT TO NOTHING MORE

THE REPUBLICANS NOT SINCERE

In Their Efforts to Enter Upon the Work-There Will be Lots of Talk, but No Serious Effort at Work.

WASHINGTON, April 2 .- [Special.]-The republican members of the committee of ways and means have been forced to agree to what Is known as the McKinley tariff bill; but it is now an open secret that the leaders are rapidly reaching the conclusion that they dare not pass the bill that is about to be reported by the polid against the tax put upon hides to pay a campaign debt to the Chicago cattle trust. There are irreconcilable antagonisms on the new sugar schedule. There is open hostility to the reduced duties on cordage, twine, etc., which will cripple our manufacturers with little benefit to the consumer, when hemp could have been made free without affecting any industry. There are many protests against the 120 per cent increase of tax on tin plate, and the party whip will be powerless to force anything like a solid party vote for the bill. THERE WILL BE NO PARTY WHIP.

But it is safe to say that there will be no crack of the party whip to force the passage of the McKinley bill. It is understood to be Mc-Kinley's presidential bid for '89, and Allison, the father of the senate bill of 1888, will take a positive stand against some of the vital fea-tures of the house measure. Speaker Reed intended to whirl the tariff bill through the house, but it is now expected that he has weakened in his purpose. He probably could not do it if he would, as it is now doubtful whether he would do it if he could. The large whether he woulddo it if he could. The large business of the country interested in tariff legislation may as well be told now as later, that there will be no tarriff bill passed this session of congress. Enough re-publican leaders have decided on this policy to assure the result, and the opposition mani-fested to several features of the bill, not only makes the defeat of the bill an easy one, but it is doubtful whether the united efforts of the national leaders could force the passage of the McKinley bill, or any modification of it.

THE LEADERS KEEP QUIET.
Senators Cameron and Quay have been reticent as to tariff legislation, and their attitude is unknown; but the fact that neither has taken any special interest in shaping the bill in the house committee, indicates that they are not clear in their judgment as to the wisdom of attempting to force the passage of any bill this session. When it shall be obvious that no tariff bill can pass there may be a special bill passed reducing the tobacco taxes, but there ax and tariff revision will end this session.

THE DEMAND FOR FREE MATERIALS.

The popular pressure for free raw materials has had much to do with disintegrating the republicans on the tariff, and how far the party will advance in that line after the next elections will depend largely on the popular expression in electing the next congress. One of the etrong but not generally expressed reasons against passing a tariff bill now is the general conviction that the party must soon advance to free wool, lumber, iron ore, tin, hemp, and other raw materials, but whatever may be the controlling cause, the business interests of the country may feel safe in assuming that no new tariff bill will pass this session.

TO BRIDGE THE OCONER. Judge Crisp today secured the passage of a bill allowing the Wrightsville and Tennille Railroad company the right to bridge the Oconse river at Dublin, Ga.

A LIVELY SCENE.

There was a lively scrimmage in the office of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, on Newspaper row, late tonight. Count DeArnaud, a Russian nobleman, entered the office naud, a Russian nobleman, entered the office to call General H. V. Boynton, chief of the Commercial Gazette corps in this city, to ac-count for some aspersions the general had seen the cast upon the country military record fit to cast upon the count's military record. DeArnaud, it seems, was an attache of Gen-DeArnaud, it seems, was an attache of General Grant's staff during the war, and although without rank, he enjoyed confidential relations with the general of the army. Just what his exact relations were has been a question in aspute, but General Boynton charges that he was Grant's trusted spy. Furthermore, he charges that since the war closed DeArnaud has been in this cty as the representative of the Russian government, to keep them posted in a confidential way about what was going on in inner circles. He is charged with being the instigator of many of the anonymous replies written to George Kennan's exposure of Russian methods of disposing of political priseners. DeArnaud has a bill before congress to retire him with the rank of colonel, and also thank him for the service he rendered to the union cause. Last week DeArnaud be-and also thank him for the service he rendered to the union cause. Last week DeArnaud became involved in some questionable transaction with a woman over a real estate transfer, and Boynton took occasion to renew the attack. The count was seeking satisfaction, and he got it, though in an unexpected manner for him. He called upon General Boynton to retract, but instead of doing so, the general repeated all the charges he had made in print with a few additional adornments. His refusal angered the Russian, and he made some reflections on the general's bravery, whereat angered the Russian, and he made some reflections on the general's bravery, whereat Boynton promptly showed him the door.

As DeArnaud reached the point of egress, he called the general a coward, and although the Russian is fully twice the size of Boynton, a blow from the latter's right arm, which shot out like a catapult, promptly sent him sprawling into the gutter. A few moments later the count, having secured reinforcements, returned. As he opened the door, two or three other newspaper men, who had congregated, rugsed out, and a regular pitched battle took place on the sidewalk, which resulted in the ignominious rout of the Russian and his friends.

Report of the Monetary Convention at Wash-

Washinoton, April 2.—The committee on the monetary convention of the Pan-American conference held a meeting today to consider various propositions on this subject referred to it by the conference yesterday. The following report was agreed upon and unanimously adopted by the conference this afternoon:

The international American conference is of the opinion that great advantages would accrue to commerce between the nations of this continent by the use of a coin or coins that would be current, at the same value, in all countries represented in this conference, and therefore recommend: ington.

3. That to give full effect to this recommendation, there shall meet in Washington a commission, composed of one or more delegates from each nation represented in this conference, which shall consider the quantity, kind of currency, the uses it shall have, and the value and proportion of the international silver coin or coins, and their relations to gold.

4. That the president of the United States 'invite this commission to meet in Washington in a

The conference then adjourned until Monday next.

THE ANTI-TRUST BILL AGAIN. It Is Reported Back But the Committee Has

It is Reported Back But the Committee Has Changed It.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—In the senate, Mr. Edmunds, from the judiciary committee, reported back the anti-trust bill in the form of a substitute, and said that there was one section in the bill as reported, which he thought went further than it ought to go. He would probably not be in town when the matter would be taken up, but some other member of the committee would take charge of it.

Mr. Vest, a member of the judiciary committee, said he concurred in the report, but with the understanding that there was one section of the bill which did not, in his opinion, go far enough.

Mr. Cullon saked whether that was the ion, go far enough.

Mr. Cullom asked whether that was the same section which Mr. Edmunds thought went too far. Mr. Vest said it was. He thought it was same section which Mr. Edmunds thought went too far.

Mr. Vest said it was. He thought it was section 7.

Mr. George, another member of the committee, regarded the bill, so far as it went, as a good one, the best that could be framed under the constitutional powers of congress over commerce; but there were one or two powers which, he thought, might be exercised effectively in the direction of suppression of trusts and combinations, but which the committee did not see proper to exercise. He should support the bill as reported, but might offer amendments looking to the exercise of these other powers.

Mr. Coke, another member of the committee, concurred in the bill as reported, except that he would prefer the section referred to by Mr. Vest to be in a little different form. The bill was then read, and Mr. Edmunds said that as soon as the Montana election case was disposed of, the bill would be taken up. Following is the substance of the bill: Section 1. Every contract, combination, in the form of a trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in the restraint of trade or commerce among the several states, or with foreign nations, is hereby declared to be illegal. Every person who shall make any such contract or engage in any such combination or conspiracy shall be deemed guilty of misdemenor, and on conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding 55,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both; said punishments in the discretion of the court.

Section 2. Every person who shall monopolize-or combine, or conspiracy, and on conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding 55,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both, said punishments in the discretion of the court.

Section 3. Every contract, combination in the form of a trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce he were any such territory or territories and any territory of the United States or of the District of Columbia and any state or states, or foreign nations, is hereby declared illegal section 6. Provides for the forfeiture of property owned under any of the transactions specified and forbidden in this bill.

Section 7. Any person who shall be injured in his business or property by any other person or corporation, by reason of anything forbidden or declared to be unlawful by this act, may sue therefor in any circuit court of the United States in the district in which the defendant resides, or is found, without respect to the amount in concontroversy, and shall recover, three field daming a reasonable attorney's fees.

Section 8. That the word "person" or "persons" wherever used in this act, shall be deemed to include corporations and associations existing under or authorized by the laws of any state, or the laws of any foreign country.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Hale to change back the daily hour of meeting to 12 o'clock was taken up.

Mr. Edmunds moved to amend by making it take effect on Monday, the 14th, instead of next Monday.

The Edmunds amendment was rejected, yeas 27, nays 29. The resolution then agreed to.

The conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was presented and agreed to.

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the Montana election case, the majority report being in favor of William A. Clark and Martin Maginnis.

IDAHO'S AMBITION. The Bill for Its Statehood-The Anti-Mor

mon Clause

mon Clause.

Washington, April 2.—The house met at 11 o'clock. Not more than fifty members were present, the chaplain absent, and the journal not prepared for reading.

In the morning hour, on motion of Mr. Turner, of Georgia, from the committee on commerce, the bill was passed authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Oconee river at Dublin, Ga.

At the instance of the committee on commerce, several bills authorizing the construction passed. Among them, one providing for a bridge across the Hudson river, between New York city and some point in New Jersey. The house then took up the bill for the admission of Idaho as a state in the union.

Mr. Dorsey, of Nebraska, in charge of the bill, opened the debate with a speech in its favor. The only opposition to the admission of Idaho came from the Mormons. They protested against the provision of the constitution which distributions bitempits and polyzamists. tested against the provision of the constitution which disfranchises bigamists and polygamists tested against the provision of the constitution which disfranchises bigamists and polygamists and persons who are members of any association which encourages bigamy.

Mr. Mansur, of Missouri, premised his remarks with a disclaimer of any sympathy with the institution of bigamy, but he criticised the provision of the constitution, disfranchising the Mormons. No other state in the union had over sought to enforce what this constitution sought to enforce. No American citizens should ever be punished without a trial and a fair hearing. The real reason for disfranchising the Mormons was that the Mormons in Idaho voted the democratic ticket. It was not a question of principle but of expediency.

Mr. Dubois, of Idaho, earnestly advocated the admission of the territory he represented, into the brotherhood of states.

Mr. Smith, of Arizona, earnestly denounced the action of the committee on territories in into the brotherhood of states.

Mr. Smith, of Arizona, earnestly denounced the action of the committee on territories in failing to report the bill in favor of the admission of the territory he represented. His people had been unfairly treated. Arizona had every qualification for statehood which Montana, Dakota or Washington possessed. But the bill for her admission was to be smothered in committee simply because she had seen fit to send a democrat to this congress. It was unfair treatment, and he voiced the republican as well as democratic sentiment of his territory in protesting against it.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Chipman, of Michigan, and Perkins, of Kansas.

Pending further debate, the matter went over until tomorrow.

On motion of Mr. Tucker, of Virginia, the senate bill was passed appropriating $11,000 for the construction of a road from the city of Staunton, Va., to the national cemetery, near that point.

The house then adjourned.

IOWA REPUBLICANS ON PROHIBITION

A Large Mass Meeting Against the General Liquor Law in Iowa—A Former Prohibitionist Chairman.

DESMOINES, Iowa, April 2.—The anti-prohibe shornes, lowe, April 2.—The anti-prohibition movement within the republican party, that has made such headway since the last election, culminated in a state conference here today. One hundred and ninety-six delegates, representing twenty-five counties, were present, and they stood for several thousand republicans at home, who share their views. At representing twenty-five counties, were present, and they stood for several thousand republicans at home, who share theirly lews. At the opening session this afternoon, George M. Hubbell presented and received with greatenthusiasm, resolutions, which say in part:

We recognize the liquor traffic as one which requires regulation, but imist that the object of such regulation should be to minimize intemperance and mitigate its evils. The experience of this, as well as other states, has conclusively shown that general prohibition operating upon all communities alike, without respect to their habits, conditions, circumstances, or desires, is not adopted either to suppress intemperance or promote morals, and therefore the experiment should be abandoned, and the law so modified that those communities which desire a change shall have the right to determine for themselves whether liquors shall be sold as a beverage within their limits. We are unalterably opposite to other state ought not to be encumbered with police regulation of that character.

We recognize that the republican party originally gave its assent to prohibition as an experiment only, but we regret that its latest announcement will bear the construction that it has become one of the doctrines of the party. A political organization has no just right to bring into its declaration of principles a new doctrine, unless it be one upon which substantially all its members agree. A large number of republicans in lowa are, and have always been, opposed to general prohibition, and if the republican party adheres to its present position upon this question it is manifest that by such adherence it tends to exclude from its membership all those who believe that policy is fatal to the best interests of the state.

We recognize that there are many able and faithful members of the party who believe in prohibitor, hand it would be as unjust and unwise to offend them by announcements of any platform as we have feit it unjust and unwise to make declarations repusements of map

The committee on permanent organization comms, or Reografs, for than man, and audressed the conference from the standpoint of a prohibitionist who had tried to enforce the law and failed, and as a republican and temperance man, asked for some protection against uncontrolled saloons. A series of resolutions were adouted were adopted.

VOTING IN SECRECY.

Rhode Island Tries the Australian Sys tem.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., A pril 2.—The state election was held today. The weather is exceptionally fine. The ballot reform law was in practical operation. Voting in secrecy is giving great satisfaction. The election at all polling places in Providence and in other cities and towns, according to reports received, is progressing quietly and causing but little trouble to the voters in their exercise of the constitutional franchise. After all the instructions which has for years been given in the details of the Australian method the citizens seem to take to it as if to the manner born.

A UNIQUE LETTER.

Written by Three Prisoners Before Leaving

Written by Three Prisoners Before Leaving Jail.

BLUK RIDGE, Ga., April 2.—[Special.]—Messrs. Lowery, Rose and Phillips escaped from the Fannin county jail, last night, by pouring the oil from the lamp they had in their cage, and setting it on fire. They left the following note, addressed to Judge Withrow, ordinary of this county:

Morganton Jail, March Sil.—Judge Withrow; As we are expecting to leave you for a short time, and cannot have the chance to see you personally, we take this means of returning our thanks to you for the kindness you have shown us since our short acquaintance with you. We regret very much to leave you, under such circumstances, but thinking it will be better for us, and as well for the public good of the county, we will leave you perhaps to your sudden surprise. We also wish to return thanks to your good lady for her heartfelt sympathy, believing her to be one of those good kind of ladies who feel so sorry for men locked up in a cell like we are. Please extend our thanks to all the good ladies who have been so kind as to visit us, and looked as though they were sorry to see us in such a place. If it is convenient to do so, please say to Mr. Trammell, one of the magistrates of your county, that Rose and Phillips have decided not to give him the one thousand dollar bond that he required, thinking him incompetent to do justice to such an immense amount stored away in such an office as we suppose he keeps, and if he wants to find our whereabouts, he will find it recorded in the last chapter of Luke. Judge, as it is getting late, and we want to get off as soon as possible, these remarks must soon close. Thanking you again for your kind treatment, and the good lady for her good "grub," please excuse us for not taking the time to come by and say good-bye, we remain your friends,

The Nominee for Lieutenant Governor Writes a Letter.

The Nominee for Lieutenant Governor Writes a Letter.

Charleston, S. C., April 2.—[Special.]—A bombshell will be exploded in the Tillman camp tomorrow. J. C. Coit, who was nominated on the ticket with Tillman for lieutenant-governor at the recent farmers' convention, has deserted. In a letter addressed to Farmer Shell, today, he says:

While I fully appreciate the unsolicited compliment which has been paid me, and desire to express my thanks for this evidence of confidence, yet I am satisfied that my name was put forward under a missapprehension. It cannot be doubted that the purpose of the convention was to place upon the ticket men who were in full sympathy with the letter of the chairman of the executive committee of the Farmers' association (Captain Shell), in calling the convention together, men who fully indorsed the platform adopted, and who loved and would canvass the state upon the issues therein made.

It will be sufficient for me to say that I do not fully indorse the platform, and for this and other sufficient reasons cannot enter upon a canvass in its support as required by the eleventh section of the platform. In justice, therefore, to myself, I beg leave to withdraw my name from the ticket suggested.

Coit was state treasurer under the first democratic administration after the political revolution of 1876, and it was during his term of office that one of his clerks went "crooked." No criminal act was charged to him, but he was charged with gross negligence and subsequently resigned after making good the deficit. The farmers' convention charge the democratic state government with corruption and extravagance and some surprise was caused at the time by the nomination of Coit for lieutenant-governor, seeing that he was the one democratic official since 1876 against whom even the shadow of a suspicion had rested. The Bidding was Spirited, and the Lots Went Off Well.

Anniston, Ala., April 2.—[Special.]—The boom has struck this section. The sale of lots at the new town of Shelby begun yesterday. About 2,000 people were on the ground, eager to secure a corner. The company offered twenty-five lots at auction, which brought from forty-five to seventy-one dollars per front foot. The remaining lots were drawn for at the prices fixed by the company. The day's sales amounted to near $250,000. The speculator failed to get in his work at the company discouraged them as far as possible.

Two trains of capitalists arrived here yesterday from Boston to attend the big land sale tomorrow. The town is pretty well filled with strangers today, and are ben groyally entertained by the Anniston City Land company.

F. G. Bush will, in all probability, be the new president of the First National bank, in place of D. P. Parker, deceased. While Mr. Parker's death was a great blow to the district, yet with such leaders as A. L. Tyler, T. G. Bush, James W. Lap cly and others, our developments will not be materially retarded.

The lots will be auctioned off by the Anniston City Land comauctioned of by the Amiston City Land company, and are among the choicest in the city. The chances are that the sale will be very large, and great good is looked for, as the result of the influx of visitors with money and brains from the land "over the line."

Ladies' Memorial association decided at their meeting this afternoon to have the decoration exercises on the 10th of May. This has been usual here, because of the lack of flowers in April. This decision was also due to the fact that a great many from our city wish to go to is proposed to raise funds on Memorial Day to place marble headstones on each soldier's

Rome, Ga., April 2.—[Special.]—As the city license ordinance makes the amount for liquor dealers $1,000 per year, payable in advance, the city received from ten barrooms yesterday for license $10,000. Three firms have decided to withdraw from the business—Grace & Cox, E. Selig and C. L. Ballew. The beer license is only $100, and two firms have taken out licenses. NEW YORK, April 2.—Futures were firmer, but the Liverpool market disappointed our bears, who in a small way bought to cover. The full estimate of port receipts caused only a momentary depression, and the latest figures were among the best or the day. The demand for April contracts were omething of a feature and an element of strength. Veterans in the cotton trade say the floods will not be of much consequence as regards the delay in planting, but greatly increase the danger from worms.

MACON, Ga., April 2 .- [Special.]-The long talked of canning factory in this city, has at last been organized and all the stock disposed MACON, Cas., April 2. To the maked of canning factory in this city, has at last been organized and all the stock disposed of. The stockholders are all members of the fruit exchange and are prominent truckers of this section. Judge C. J. Harris devised plans for establishing the factory while confined to his bed, and since coming on the street he has been busy explaining his idea to the different fruit meer, and yesterday afternoon they were definitely settled upon.

The factory will be built on Judge Harris's place, on the Columbus road, and will be most convenient to the people who are to raise the fruit for the industry. It will be established on a modern scale at present, but if this season's work proves profitable the site will be removed to the railroad, and the capital increased to, perhaps, $25,000. It has not yet been decided whether or not it will be a chartered concern, but the matter will be settled at a meeting of the stockholders tomorrow morning. Several of Macon's largest grocery houses have signed a contract to buy their entire supply from this factory, if prices and quality will compare with other factories. This will more than consume the entire product of the factory, and the company goes into business with their sales already made. A number of prominent truckers have agreed to plant five acres each in tomatoes for the industry, and others are expected to plant also. The company proposes to can peaches in addition to tomatoes, and state that the supply in this line can be gotten without trouble. Work on the building will commence at once and the order for the machinery will be sent in next week.

The factory will prove a paying investment.

A MANUFACTURING FEATURE.

To Be Introduced Into the Swamp Land Owners' Organization.

Owners' Organization.

Macon, April 2.—[Special.]—In conversation with Judge C. J. Harris today, your reporter learned something of importance in regard to the swamp land owners' organization.

The matter of organizing seems to have been at a standstill for the past few weeks, but Judge Harris accounts for this to some extent by his recent illness. He stated, however, that Judge Kibby and himself were busy arranging a contract that would be satisfactory to all parties concerned in the matter.

The matter of adjusting the worth of the timber on the different lands, he says, has also delayed the perfecting of the organization, but he hopes now to have the matter pushed through rapidly.

It is proposed, Judge Harris says, to embrace a manufacturing feature in

This matter will be given careful consideration and will doubtless be adopted.

be adopted.

By this plan outside capital, or factories now in operation can be embraced in its capital stock, making it a most important manufacturing scheme. In reply to a question whether or not foreign capital would be allowed in the enterprise, Judge Harris stated that an effort would be made to induce home capital to come into it, but if this could not be had, then foreign capital would be invited.

An organization of this kind would make Macon a great manufacturing center for wooden ware, and would be an important item in the industries of the city.

I now write to say that I will charge nothing. I rocked the cradle of this sewering and paving measure, I have struggled for it in the press, in the legislature and at the polls, and I will stand by it to the death; and, if need be, in its resurrection after death. For this I wish no reward, save the consciousness that I have assisted in a great improvement, which I am convinced my fellow citizens desire and which I know the city needs. Truly your friend, R. W. Rev. Sam W. Small reached the city yesterday and at once began circulating among the prohibitionists.

Mr. Small is for an election.

During the day he visited the prominent members of the party, with whom he held long and earnest conversation, and by whom a meeting was arranged for the night. With Mr. Small's movements rumors began to circulate, and in a short time it was said that a local option election this spring had been abandoned, and that in lieu thereof the prohibitionists had determined to present these candidates for the legislature this fall. These candidates were said to be S. W. Small, T. P. Westmoreland and J. O. Perkins. Or S. W. Small, T. P. Westmoreland and J. O. Perkins. Or S. W. Small, T. P. Westmoreland and W. R. Hammond.

A confirmation of neither rumor, however, could be secured.

The meeting last night was held with closed doors, but after it was over Mr. Small was asked:

asked:

"What did you decide to de?"

"We reached no decision, as the meeting Friday night will do that."

"Will there be an election?"

"I don't know?"

"Will that meeting decide to have one?"

"I can't tell, as I will be away."

"Will you run for the legislature, as the rumor says?"

"I will not."

AT THE THEATER.

"Over the Garden Wall," once a very cleyer and funny comedy, was played at DeGive's by the Mrs. George S. Knight company last night.

In the days when poor George Knight was the Snitz, and the cast contained such people as Monroe, Graham, Rice and others, this was a play well worth seeing. But the people who try to fill their shoes can't fill them.

Mrs. Knight, who is at the head of the company playing at DeGive's, sings and dances cleverly; Mrs. Reynolds, the Snitz, does some good work; Miss Lorraine dances some. The other members of the company scarcely deserve mention. In the last act some of their specialties savor strongly of an elocutionary and musical exhibition of a lot of amateurs.

This great tank drama will be presented at the opera house for three days and one matinee, beginning April 7th. Messrs, Jefferson and Taylor are the proprietors of the play, and they have spared no expense to give it a first-class performance. They bring a carload of beautiful scenery and mechanical applicances, so as to surround the action of the play with the most realistic effects. The Boston Herald said of the performance:

"The aquatic spectacle, "A Dark Secret," was presented for the first time in Boston at the Globe theater last night. The house was packed, and expectation was on tiptos to see the much spoken of scene, 'Henley on the Thames,' where 1,400 square feet of the stage was flooded with 50,000 gallons of water. This scene was the greatest feature of the play, and during its continuance the water was enlivened by some seen was the greatest feature of the play, and during its continuance the water was enlivened by a participated in "by Edward Hanlan, the professional carsuman, and a liyely, race it was. This was in the third act, and the immense mass of water was a factor in the fourth act in addding to a highly sensational scene. The story of the drama is deeply involved, and is worked out very deftiy, and the climaxes are striking and exciting. The characters are cleverly drawn, being fiesh and blood creations. The play is strong melodramatic, and there is sufficient comedy element to lighten it pleasantly. It was well acted, Miss Beatrice Lieb as May Joyce, being pleasing and forceful. Miss Lidiana Miska, the governess, was tigerish, as the author intended. Messrs. J. S. Thompson and Joseph L. Mason, as the Brothers Norton, deserve praise for good acting; and Horace Vinton made Martin Brooke a manly university athlete, and was admirable. Mr. John E. Hynes made much of a character hit, Jem Sim, for which he deserves good praise. The drama was elaborately produced, and may be accounted one of the hits, of the season. The credit of the production is due to Mr. C. B. Jefferson, showing dramatic lit

Mr. William St. John, general agent of the Pintsch gas lighting department of the Safety Car Heating and Lighting company, is in Atlanta, and it is owing to his efforts that the

It is then measured and passes to the gas holders, from which it is drawn by the compressor and stored under any desired degree of compression in the tanks from which pipes fead wherever it is convenient to convey it for use. The process is a simple one, very direct and economical. A plant capable of making all the gas required for 500 cars is contained in a building 26 feet, 4 inches, by 38 feet, 6 inches, one story in heighth. I can truthfully say it has no equal. I was so speedily and easily relieved that it was a surprise to all those attending me. "Mother's Friend" undoubtedly lessens the pains, shortens the time and restores the mother speedily to health. I only used one bottle, which cost me $1.50; it has been worth $20 to me. "I arrived here this morning," said Mr. St. John last night "and I have already seen several contractors who will meet me tomor-several contractors who will meet me tomorrow and go over the plans and specifications before making a bid. I see no reason why the plant should not be completed in sixty days."

"Where will it be located?"

"That I can't say exactly. It will, however, be near some of the railroad tracks. I am to meet Mr. Gabbett tomorrow morning, and he will very probably give me a site on the property owned by the Central road."

"Will any other of the railroad companies adopt your system?"

"I have no doubt they will. The Atlanta and West Point road people have already expressed a desire to make the change, and during my last visit to Atlanta Mr. Maddox, of the Atlanta and Florida road stated his intention of using our gas.

"The plan of using the gas is briefly: A tank is placed under each car, which is capable of carrying enough gas to illuminate a car for twenty-four consecutive hours. Pipes lead from the tank into the car, and the light is so perfect that the newsboy on the New York Central road told me his newspaper sales had increased seventy-five per cent since it was adopted by that company."

"How is the gas made?"

"The material used for the manufacture of Pintsch gas is crude or refined petroleum, or the residual products of coal oil distillation. Crude petroleum is the cheapest material, and the one generally employed. The oil is passed through suitably arranged iron retorts kept at a high temperature by a coal fire below them. The furnace is of such design that the retorts are evenly heated from end to end, and are kept at such a temperature as to thoroughly convert into gas the oil, which is fed into them through specially arranged pipes and graduating cocks. The product is a rich and permanent gas, and of the highest illuminating power known in the art. From the retorts it passes through water seals, and is led by a pipe to the condenser, where it is cooled. In this it deposits the vapor of water, tar, etc., mechanically carried over with the gas. From the condenser it passes through a washer which further purifies it, and then through lime purifiers, which effect the removal of all traces of impurities which may still remain. It is then measured and passes to the gas holders, from which it is

"Where is the system most used?"

"In Europe. It was invented by James Pintsch, a German, and was adopted by the government. It has been extensively introduced in Germany, England, Austria, France, Russia, Italy, Holland, Egypt, Belgium and Brazil, and has met with entire success. We have a list as complete as mail advices up to May, 1888, permit us to make it, of the railroads using it, and of the increase in the number of cars lighted since 1883. This table shows that whereas in 1883 11,422 cars were Venezuela Will Fight.

For some years past the British have been helping themselves to Venezuelan territory. These land robbers simply occupy the districts they wish to seize and then raise their flag over their fortified posts.

Venezuela has been protesting vigorously, and appealing for an arbitration to settle all disputed questions, but the British continue their aggressive encroachments.

It is possible that the two countries will come to blows. When President Palacio took the oath of office last month, the president of the senate made a speech in which he declared that it was the duty of Venezupla to defend every foot of her soil, even if it brought upon her a disastrous defeat and the fate of Poland. In reply the new president said that if Venezuela failed to secure allies she would send her legions against the in-

These speeches were received with enthusiastic applause, and it is safe to say that the policy of the new administration will be warlike.

Under the generally accepted construction of the Monroe doctrine it is difficult to see how this republic can calmly look on and see her South American sisters bulldozed and robbed by any European monarchy. The question touches us very closely, and before it is settled our government can hardly fail to be drawn into the controversy. Naturally the sympathies of our people are with the Yankee Cities in the South.

The Columbus, Ohio, Dispatch, referring to an article in the Tallapoosa, Ga., Journal, devoted to the manufacturing interests of that town, thinks that a curious feature of it appears in one of the headlines, where Tallapoosa is called "A Yankee City Under Southern Sun," and that still another peculiar feature is the boast that in that region they have the climate, iron ore, and other facilities, natural and acquired, to lead England in lines growing out of the iron indus-

The Dispatch, "after making due allowance for home pride and the speculator's rather enthusiastic assertions," is dazed when it remembers that these same vankee rities in the south are enlisted with the native population in the work of whipping England in the iron market "upon the very spot that England sought to turn to her own advantage, in the great war, less than thirty

The surprise of our contemporary in contemplating this new order of things is not to be wondered at. Like many other newspapers it is unfamiliar with the progress of the south and the work of union and regeneration which has been going on here for the past thirty years. Granting that England 'sought to turn this very spot to her advantage less than thirty years ago," the league which the yankee and the "rebel" have formed against her and the world in this union of interests, shows how completely the north and south have recovered from the disaster of thirty years since, and are wedded to the upbuilding of our common country. There is no north and no south now, save in the memories of the unforgiving few who are opposed to a union of hands, as they to a union of hearts.

Yankee cities under a southern sun are doing a rushing business. We are all happy and hope to be still happier. And may the good work go on forever!

Sergeant Dunn Again.

Sergeant Dunn, of the signal service office at New York, stands by his predictions of disastrous floods for the lower Mississippi

The sergeant says that he has been misquoted in reference to New Orleans. He did not specially name that city as marked out for destruction. That it will suffer great damage, he thinks, is morally certain. The situation grows more threatening, and citizens in the vicinity of New Orleans should lose no time in seeking high ground.

Sergeant Dunn's views, as he now presents them, are doubtless fully justified by the situation. It is not likely that the overflow will have the force of a rushing torrent. On the contrary, it will spread out in a thin sheet of water, and the more extensive the area covered the shallower the water will be.

Matters are bad enough in the flood region, without predicting wholesale death and destruction, but a timely warning is cer-

Why New England Is Loyal.

If Daniel Webster had never lived it is pos sible that there would have been no armed opposition to the secession of the southern states in 1861.

On its face this is apparently a startling statement, but the facts of the case give it the color of probability. Originally New England was the hot-bed of secession. Her most eminent men fully believed in the doctrine, and more than once the threat was made that their states would go out of the union if certain things came to pass. All this is told without reserve in Henry Adams's recent history, as well as in other books that might be named. The people of New England were never impressed with the idea that the union was ething more permanent than an ordinary partnership between the states until Webster made his reply to Hayne and several other speeches on the same line. The great senator from Massachusetts was gifted with the most commanding order of eloquence, and in his eyes the union was something almost sa-cred. When he thundered against a policy that would result in "states dissevered, discordant and beligerent," and "a land frenched in fraternal blood," and made his immortal plea for "Liberty and Union," the New Englanders or the first time were fully sed to the dangers of secession. Following in the lead of Webster, the northern head and heart espoused the cause of the union and secession was a dead issue north of Mason and Dixon's line.

We talk sometimes about the one man power. Never was it more conspicuously manifested than in the work of the Lion of the North. Without the devotion, zeal and eloquence of the great expounder of the con-stitution the crisis of sixty-one would have found a half-hearted north, ready to say with Horace Greeley: "Let the erring sisters

The thoughtful student of American history will find the rise and fall of the secession idea in New England an interesting

A Roman Holiday.

Now that St. Augustine has celebrated the ecasion of the landing of Ponce de Leon with great pomp and ceremony, it strikes us that our sister city, Rome, has a fine open ing for a spring festival on a similar line.

Why not celebrate the visit of that daring and unfortunate Spanish cavalier, Fernando De Soto to the spot on which Rome now stands? De Soto took quite a fancy to the country about Rome and spent nearly all of the month of June in that locality.

A festival to commemorate the explorer's visit might very well be made to fill a week in June, and a very picturesque and gay affair it would be. Rome would be the prettiest town on the continent when rigged out in gala colors for such an occasion. Think of the possibilities in the shape of a procession of mailed Spanish knights, with their men at arms, their priests and their captivestheir barges on the water-the gallant De Soto planting the flag of Spain on some convenient hill-top, and-but there is no limit to the programme. Such a festival would draw the attention of the entire country to Rome, and her streets during the week of her spring carnival would be crowded with visitors. Why not try it?

Growth of the Farmers' Alliance. The New York Press has been doing som alliance work lately. That is, its correspon dents in the east, west, north and south were instructed to send in reports of the relative strength of the alliances in different states, and the result has been a surprise to the Press, and its probable future influence upor the country is made the basis of lengthy editorial comment.

The Press thinks that the growth of the alliance in the past six months, from its small beginning in Kansas, is startling and has grave political significance. It says: Take the census of 1880. Out of 14,744,942 ma of all ages engaged in various occupations 7,055, 983, or almost one-half, were pursuing agriculture as an avocation. This is, therefore, the largest single element of our voting population, The compact union of the farmers of the country in a political organization would overthrow all other parties, because it would be impossible to combine the other elements and classes solidly against them. The general character of the far ners of the country makes it certain that they have the independence, tenacity of purpose and integrity to stand together. The labor unions will not bear comparison with the Farmers' Alliance, because in the unions are gathered mostly men who labor by the day and live from hand to me The farmer is solf-supporting—a sovereign of the soil, dependent only on his own exertions. We shall watch the Farmers' Alliance with the interest that it challenges as the latest, greatest, and possibly the most formidable force in American

The Farmers' Alliance, however, cannot be classed with political organizations. It may be said that it is and is not political; alliancemen everywhere repudiate politics a the object of the order; but it certainly wields a great political influence, which will be felt throughout the country and will work to the benefit of the farmer. Without giving utterance to one sentiment that could be construed politically, an organization with a million members at once becomes a powerful factor in the politics of the country, and is a menace to those who would work against its legitimate interests; and so the Farmers' Alliance, if, indeed, it took no active interest in political affairs, would still have an influence that would give direction to legislation, and secure such concessions in matters where the farmers' interests were at stake as they might desire. The farmers know what they are about. They will do the very best for themselves and for the whole country.

The Elections in Kansas,

The women made things lively in Kansas on Tuesday. They made April fools of all the male politicians and captured the local offices far and near.

The reason of their success lies in the fact that they are what might be termed 'hustlers.' A strong-minded woman appre ciates the right of suffrage and works it for all it is worth. She is generally waiting at the registry department to write her name down on the list of voters three days before the books are open, and so there are very few women who are unregistered when an election comes off. The account of the elections, as told in our dispatches, makes interesting reading, but has some ridiculons features that provoke a smile. Especially was this the case at Salina, where the anti-suffragists put up a colored woman as a candidate for the school board and elected her by an overwhelming majority. This is where the trouble would come in if woman suffrage ever became universal. The lady of the house would find herself running for congress side by side with her cook, and would die of a broken heart if the cook was elected. But we have already warned them of the langers ahead, and a word to the wise should be sufficient. In the Land of Law and Order.

The occasional lynching bees in the northvest, and the White Cap outrages in the middle states have been more than once shown up in these columns.

But the latest case of lawlessness is reported from a large city. In Chicago, the other morning just before daybreak, a gang of masked men attacked a two-story house elonging to Mrs. Mary Miller, on Washington boulevard, with battering-rams, crow bars, etc., and completely demolished it.

Policemen saw the outlaws at work, but made no attempt to arrest them.

It seems that certain persons were dis pleased with the action of the courts in awarding Mrs. Miller her share of her dead husband's estate. So they annoved her with legal proceedings, and at last resorted to actual violence. The unfortunate widow had from time to time appealed to the police for protection, but was left to fight her bat tles for herself, and in her absence her little pened in a large and well-policed city-on regarded as so typical of American progress that it has been selected as the site of the coming world's fair. REV. SAM JONES, in a sermon to the colored people at Fort Worth, Texas, the other day, said: "When a colored man gets a little education he does one of three things—he goes to preaching, teaching or to the chain-gang."

AN ALLIANCE DAY.

WHICH BRINGS THE CHEROKEE FARMERS TOGETHER.

Colonel Livingsion Delivers a Master Speech, and Judge Jim Brown Puts Himself on Record.

Canton, Ga., April 2.—[Special.]—This has been a "red letter day" for the alliancemen of Cherokee. The regular quarterly meeting of the County Farmers' alliance was held, and more or less business of importance to its members transacted, and some matters, too, leading to the metalliance and political properties. looking to the material prosperity and political movements of the people generally.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON PRESENT. Colonel Livingston, president of the state alliance, was a drawing card, and made a speech of an hour and a half's length to a crowded house, that thrilled his hearers and kindled their enthusiasm. His remarks were given close attention, and very frequently ap-

Already the common schools show a marked increase both in numbers and attendance, and legislators are more willing to lend a helping hand to the oppressed and hard worked farmer and laboring man. From its inception the alliance has taught its members the most tarmer and laboring man. From its interpton the alliance has taught its members the most rigid economy, and, as a result, in proportion to the population, less was bought on time last year than any year since the war. The farmers, too, are diversifying their crops, raising more hog and hominy—home supplies—than heretofore. Colonel Livingston devoted the greater part of his time to the financial problems of the country, giving a full, clear and plain explanation of the several acts that have been passed affecting the monetary system of the country. "The price of the product from the farmer or the shop," said he, "depends not only upon the question of supply and demand, but also upon the volume of currency at hand by which the business in its several branches as it stands related to the commerce of the country must be done. This is true from this fact, with others, that the the alliance has taught its members the most is true from this fact, with others that the is true from this fact, with others, that the laws of the country make money the foundation of all contracts. If the monetary system be at fault, every business or enterprise on which it depends must necessarily be more or less deranged. The most important laws to a nation are those that constitute and control its currency. If that currency be too small in volume it depresses the prices of the products of that country, and if it is not properly distributed, it gives a decided advantage to certain localities over others."

THE DANGER OF CONCENTRATED CAPITAL.
"Concentrated capital gives concentrated power, and concentrated power is always oppressive and dangerous to a republican form of government. The currency of this country is chiefly concentrated in Wall street, consequently the commercial power and control of products in this country rests in New York, where the price of every product produced in tain localities over others." products in this country rests in New York, where the price of every product produced in the United States today, whether in California or Maine, Maryland or Texas, is controlled. Wall street stands financially to this country, in its complete centrol of the commerce, as does the human physical heart to the human system. The proper sources and growth of the does the human physical heart to the human system. The proper sources and growth of the agricultural and laboring classes depends upon the proper distribution of the country's wealth. National legislation, as regards the monetary system of our country has been hurtful and well nigh ruinous to the agricultural and laboring classes—legislation that has made the rich richer and the poor poorer by concentrating the wealth and power of the country in the hands of the few. The remedy proposed by the alliance—through the subproposed by the alliance—through the sub-treasury, or some such bill—is an inflation of the currency of sufficient volume to do the business of the country on a cash basis. This is the remedy we propose for this great and growing evil, and it is the remedy to which the currency of sufficient volume to do the business of the country on a cash basis. This is the remedy we propose for this great and growing evil, and it is the remedy to which we propose to firmly stand."

Colonel Livingston briefly explained the demands of the alliance executive committee, published in today's Constitution, relative to certain issues that every candidate this year will be asked to fully express himself upon, "and," said he, "if a candidate can not and will not align himself with these demands and show his sincerity by signing his name thereto, then the alliance will drop him and find one who will. Yet the alliance does not intend to engage in any third party movement, but will work in the primaries of the two present political parties."

AS TO HIMSELF.

Speaking of himself he said he was not now a candidate for any office and did not know didate for any office and did not kno that he would ever be, and certainly would not be if it should in any way hazard the suc-cess of the alliance and the principles for which it is laboring. However, he could not which it is laboring. However, he could not say he would refuse to serve if the people saw that his services were really needed. He closed his speech, which was earnest, plain and at times eloquent and pathetic, with an appeal to the people to give the alliance movement an honest and fair trial—not to judge it by the mistake it had made and most likely would make in the future, but to join hands in its demands for "equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

At the close of Colonel Livingston's speech Judge James R. Brown, who had been an at-tentive listener all the while, was called upon by President Hill and introduced to the auditentive instener all the while, was called upon by President Hill and introduced to the audience in a very complimentary manner. Judge Brown acknowledged the compliment paid him by the president, and the unexpected privilege and honor that had been accorded him to appear before the people at this time in a few well chosen words, and then, in an off-hand way, briefly discussed the monetary system, railroad and other great questions of the day in a manner that showed his familiarity with them, and his ability to grapple the most perplexing problems that are now affecting this country. He referred to the political demands made by the alliance, and said he thought they were just and right, as are also the principles, aims and objects of the order; and, judging the alliance by the good it has already accomplished, he said he could see no reason why success should not and will not be inscribed upon the banner. In the few minutes' talk he made he spoke in a manner that reassured his hearers that he was fully able and prepared to meet and discuss any question affecting the people in a way that would be to their interest. fully able and prepared to meet and discuss any question affecting the people in a way that would be to their interest. Although Judge Brown has retired from the practice of law, and is living quietly at home superintending his farm work, he has lost none of that fiery eloquence, zeal and enthusiasm in whatever subject he discusses that has characterized his past life and brought to him honors and success. He is one of Georgia's ablest men, and it is hardly probable he will be allowed to remain in retirement upon his farm. He is the man to succeed Colonel Candler in the next congress, and it is almost certain that he will, too, as he is gaining strength over the district every day.

WORK OF THE ALLIANCE.

Work of the Alliance.

At the close of Judge Brown's remarks a recess of one hour was taken, after which the county alliance met in secret session and transacted some important business, among which was the following:

President J. B. Hill and Thomas R. Bell were elected delegates to the state alliance, which meets in Atlanta on the third Tuesday which meets in Atlanta on the third Tuesday in August next.

L. B. Hughes and W. R. McCurby were appointed delegates to attend a meeting of the alliancemen of Bartow, Cobb, Gordon, Paulding and adjoining counties at Cartersville tomorrow for the purpose of considering the building of a joint cotton seed oil mill and guano factory at some convenient point in one of the above counties. A committee, consisting of the presidents of the several sub-alliances in Cherokse, together with the county president and secretary, was appointed to formulate plans by which steps may be taken towards the building of manufacturing enterprises in Cherokee.

The following preamble and resolution was presented and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The Farmers' Alliance has been accused of entering into politics, and for a fact will enter politics, but not as an alliance, but as citizens who are looking to the best interest of the country.

Therefore, be it resolved, That the Cherokee Country Farmers' alliance, duly assembled, respectfully request the executive committee of this county, to appoint primary elections in which each individual of the county can have a voice in saying who shall represent them in the federal and state offices to be filled this year.

There are about thirty sub-alliances in Cherokee county, with a total membership of about 1,500, and the order just now is in a flourishing condition and gives promise of being of great benefit to its members.

Mr. W. S. Copeland, of the Southern Al-liance Farmer, was here and made a speech in the interest of his paper, the official organ of the state alliance. The result was that he added several names to his list. During the day he appeared before the alliance and in-structed the members in the secret work of the order, and made them a ringing alliance talk full of good counsel and cheering words. Colonel Northen in Cumming.

Cumming. Ga., April 2.—[Special.]—Hon. W. J. Northen addressed the citizens of Forsyth county at the courthouse here yesterday evening. He made a plain, practical speech, one calculated to do much good if heeded. This being a very busy time with our farmers, only a small crowd was in town. Those who heard him expressed themselves well pleased with the address. His coming among us has caused Northen stock to rise, and it may be put down that this county will support him for governor.

WHAT ATLANTA TALKS ABOUT.

There is no better evidence of the growth of Atlanta than the number of new business blocks which are being erected or are about to be erected. Whitehall street will, within the next few months, be greatly changed. The new Hirsch building will add very greatly to the appearance of the block in which it is situated, and will, doubtless, be the means of bringing other new buildings there. At the corner of Hunter street, extending through to Broad, will be the magnificent new five-story building of Mr. J. M. MISSISSIPPI VALLEY.

A TRAVELER TELLS OF THE PEO-PLE'S SUFFERING.

I was in Memphis last Monday and the water marked 45.6 feet and was reported still rising. Of course the city of Memphis is in no langer, because it is upon a high bluff, and I don't think New Orleans will suffer, because the frequent breaks in the levee permit the water to escape and spreads it over such a vast territory. At Arkansas City, however, the water in the streets was four feet deep and all the houses which were not built upon hills were flooded."

"Did you see much suffering?" he was

"I went from Memphis by boat, and the captain told me he had seen a number of families perched like birds on the roofs of the houses. I saw nothing of this, but I did see crowds of people along the levees. Most of them were darkies, and they seemed to have prepared themselves as well as they could. They had their provisions and fire-wood stored up, and had made tents of their blankets. Of course, they were not enjoying themselves, but they seemed to be enduring the situation as well as could be expected."

"Are there many breaks in the levees?"

sounded like a train rushing through a big cut. I thought it was a train until my cousin told me that it was a break in the levee five miles away, and the noise I heard was the water rushing through.

"In coming upthe river, even when the levee was out of sight in the woods, there was no trouble about locating the breaks, because the water was churned up and dashed madly amongst the trees. The suction of the water made great waves which seemed big enough to sweep away everything that obstructed their course."

course."

"Are they doing much to stop the breaks?"

"Almost superhuman efforts are being used by the government levee force and by the levee commission of each district. The railroads are hurrying bags to every point where there is danger of a break, and not only freight cars, but passenger coaches are pressed into the series. The bags are filled with earth and are danger of a break, and not only freight cars, but passenger coaches are pressed into the service. The bags are filled with earth and are then laid along the levee, one above the other, in such a way that the force of the waves are broken, and yet the dirt in the bags can not be swept away."

"Have many lives been lost?"

"Heard from a friend that two colored men had been drowned near Memphis, and I have no doubt that numerous casualities have occurred, though I did not hear of them."

"What is the causes of the breaks?"

"The trouble all comes from the levees not being strong enough and not sufficiently high. This is, I understand, the worst flood eyer known, but every year the water rises more or less, and the government should take some means to make such disasters impossible."

The mystery of yesterday morning's fire alarm was explained during the day. The blaze was caused by the burning of the residence of Mr. Ed Fowler, three miles from the city on the Howell's Mill road. No details could be learned, but it is under stood that the residence was a total loss. It was a cosy country home, located on a hill, and that is the reason it made such a great blaze. At 10 o'clock, the old board, consisting of Messrs. Riser, Wilson, Hunnicutt, Adair and Garrett, was called to order by Chairman Adair.

Then after the usual form and a few re marks appropriate to the occasion, Colonel Adair surrendered his official position. The recollections of his commissionership were pleasant to Colonel Adair, and in retiring, he took occasion to refer in kindly words to his associations with the ex-workmen whom he was leaving behind.

Major M. C. Kiser, in vacating his chair, also gave expression to his feelings, regretful perhaps, but tinged with a conscious pride in having discharged his public trust ably and to the best of his ability.

Mr. Hugh L Angier appeared before the board with a petition from the property owners in the neighborhood of Angier Springs, asking that the Angier Spring road, which is being opened, should be built under the Air-Line road at its crossing instead of over, according to the plan. This will cost about $1,000 extra, and Mr. Angier's petition stated that this would be borne

They presented a paper agreeing to give the necessary additional five feet, and the commissioners decided to grant the petition, ordering the county to do the necessary extra grading.

All the annual reports were very satisfactory. That of the county treasurer showed a balance on hand of $37,377.66, with an expenditure of $20,662.13 for road and material, and $24.847.50 for the new convict herroads. $24.847.50 for the new convict barracks.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITOL. Governor Gordon granted a pardon yesterday to a colored woman who twelve years ago was sentenced to the penitentiary for life. Easter Bailey is the woman. She was tried for infanticide by the superior court of Fulton county, in 1878, found guilty and sentenced for life. Ever since her incarceration she has born an excellent reputation and has been employed chiefly as a servant at the officers' headquarters. At the time the crime was committed she was very young, and the evidence proved that she was influenced by the father of the child who fled from justice.

The petition for executive elemency was signed by the attorney who prosecuted her, by the solicitor-general, by the jury who found her guilty, and by the entire grand jury of the spring term for this year. As there were grave doubts whether the child had been born alive or dead, the gover-nor decided to grant the petition, and signed the papers ordering her immediate discharge. Adjutant-General Kell received yesterday the resignation of R. W. Thomason, the second lieutenant of the Madison Home Guards. The commissions of Captain J. E. Wells, First Lieutenant J. E. Wells and Second Lieutenant S. H. Pierson, of the Macon Volunteers were forwarded yesterday. The meeting of the military advisory board will take place next Monday at the capitol. The principal business will be to admit several fies and to consider the si

Deposited with the Lowry Banking Co., of Atlanta, Ga., which I will promptly pay to any one who will disprove any of the following statements:

This means just as it reads. The following persons are all reliable. I have hundreds of other statements similar to these in my office:
Colonel Wash Roach, attorney-at-law, 132
Broughton street, Savanuah, Ga., says that he has for five years suffered with severe stricture and ulceration of the rectum. After having tried many of the most eminent physicians in Georgia, and having traveled nearly all over the country in search of health, I found no relief until I put myself under Dr. W. J. Tucker, and in the short space of three moths I find myself nearly well.

Mrs. H. P. Stevens, an estimable lady of Waycross, Ga., says: Five years ago I was given up to die by the best physicians of southeast, Georgia, all of whom said I could not live but a few weeks. As the last resot I determined to try Dr. W. J. Tucker, of Atlanta, Ga. In less than three months the doctor had me restored to health. I am confident I would have died had it not been for his marvelous skill.

W. H. Phillips, Simsboro, La., says: I have suffered for ten years, with liver disease and chronic diarrhoea, and after being treated by Dr. W. J. Tucker a very short time am almost entirely well.

Dr. Fred B. Palmer, Atlanta, Ga., one of the

Dr. Fred B. Palmer, Atlanta, Ga., one of the best known and most popular. drugglass of Georgia, and also himself a physician, suifared for many years with piles, was cured by Dr. W. J. Tucker and remains perfectly well.

Mrs. J. F. Kinsey, Canak, Ga.: Spinal disease, nervous prostration and diseases peculiar to her sex, counted to her bed, helpless for many months, treated by Dr. W. J. Tucker three or four years ago, and since that time has been able to attend to her household duties.

Mrs. J. H. Seme, Dawson, Ga., says: I have experienced the most remarkable benefit from Dr. W. J. Tucker's treatment, gained fifteen or twenty pounds in the last few months. I advise all suffering ladies to give him a trial.

Hon, E. E. Foy, Egypt, Ga., says he suffered for many years with a dronnic military, was cured by Dr. W. J. Tucker three years ago, and loses no opportunity to tell the afflicted of Dr. Tucker's skill.

The above statements are all true, no sane man would publish them i they were not, and if you do not believe me, write to the parties and satisfy yourself. I treat successfully chronic diseases and weaknesses of both sexes. I treat all who have dealings with me honestly and conscientiously. I am responsible for what I say and do professionally, financially and individually. If you are afflicted write to me or call and you shall have an honest opinion.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange. New York, April 2.—The stock market today

New YORK, April 2.—The stock market today was as far as its tone goes, a repetition of that of yesterday, but there was decidedly more activity and the strong tone was much more pronounced. There was more disposition shown to buy for a long account than for a month past, and the bulls the property of the evident buying of There was more disposition shown to the long account than for a month past, and the bulls were much encouraged by the evident buying of the Reading pool, which was accompanied by a material rise in that stock and some others. Brokers who are supposed to represent the pool were large buyers at the opening and the price of stock was run up from 40% to 42%, though it took two spurts to accomplish this result. Other anthracite shares were correspondingly strong and Lackawanna especially was largely traded in at advancing prices and tonight it had recovered 1½ per cent of its dividend. The most significant movement of the day, however, was in the Big Four, which, with other Vanderbilts, moved up rapidly on the large business for that stock on the report that the Vanderbilts had secured control of the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan road, which would be operated by the Big Four, and that traffic cinnati, Wabash and Michigan to any whole be operated by the Big Four, and that traffic agreement had been formed with the Mackey system, which would be of benefit to both parties tem, which would be of benefit to both parties concerned. The upward movement made good, though slow progress, through the whole list, and almost everything traded in today shows a gain at the close. The money market worked easy, though rates on call were again run up to six per cent, but there was no squeeze, and funds were effered at four per cent at the close. Missouri Pacific was the only weak spot at the opening, the cause being, in all probability, the attack upon the road by an influential morning stages, but the effect of the attack was only tem. paper; but the effect of the attack was only tempaper; but the effect of the attack was only temporary, and it is only ½ per cent lower this evening than last night. As usual there were some specially wide movements among the specialties and Tennessee preferred. Chicago gas, Evansville and Terre Haute and others made material gains. There was some disposition among traders to sell the market after the morning rise, on the theory that the temporal political wall interfere with businesses. that the coming holiday will interfere with busi-ness, but the impression made by such sales was hardly appreciable and the covering done offset it with something to spare.
The market closed dull, but firm to strong and generally at about the best prices of the day. The list is almost invariably fractionally higher tonight, while C. C. C. and St. Louis rose 2½, and Reading 1½. Sales of listed 128,000 shares; unlisted, 15,000.

NEW YORK, April 2—[Special.]—Foreign advices received today were practically without change, the approach of the Easter holidays evidently inducing a quieter feeling abroad, operators being indisposed to open fresh contracts until after Easter Monday. Here the heavy selling of yesterday ceased, and the market rallied, gaining some two points over last evening, closing quiet and steady with the improvement maintained. Receipts were larger at the ports than anticipated, and a report was current that the Fall River mills had partially determined upon a short time movement in view or the low price of print cloths and the higher price of cotton. The market is without a decided tendency. Favorable advices appear to have the greatest effect upon prices, while the bears receive no encouragement except from the absence of a spinning demand here. Our cables state spinners have been free buyers lately; and, looking for higher prices, are disposed to hold their reserve stock and purchase their daily requirements. Receipts at New Orieans tomorrow are estimated at 1,000 bales.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 2—Wheat—Trading was more active and the feeling unsettled. The market yresented more animation than for some time. The volume of trading and general life to trade was a reminder of bygone days. The opening for May was ½c lower than yesterday's closing, and prices further declined ½c, then rallied 1½c, held steady and closed about ½c higher than Monday. July, which closed Monday at 1½c below May, sold today within ½@1c of May price, closing strong and fully ½c higher than Monday. The firmness in July future, and also in June, was due to some extent to the Illinois crop report, published a day or two ago, which was considered unfavorable. A prominent local trader was reported as having bought July and sold May—in fact, there was considerable selling of long wheat at the opening. Later on there was more general buying, which resulted in an advance. The early decline was attributed to the easier tone of foreign advices and an increase on ocean passage.

GEORGIA RAILROADS.

TO BUILD A MINERAL ROAD FROM ROME TO RINGGOLD, GA.

Walnut Grove Wants a Road-Milledgeville Moving to Secure the Middle Georgia and Atlantic.

The Rome Mineral Railroad company is to build a road, it is said, from Rome to Ringgold. The New South, published in Ringgold, gives these particulars:

The Rome Mineral Railroad company h its charter to build a railroad from Rome, Ga., it Rin gold. The work of building the road has arready commenced, and daily the links of steel, which will connect Ringgold and Rome, are being laid.

The road will pass through one of the richest mineral countries in Georgia, and will connect with the Western and Atlantic railroad at this place. * * * * The distance from Rome to the Tennessee river will be sixty-eight miles. There would be only a few bridges to build, no deep cuts, high hills or overflows to contend with. If the connection could be made, thousands of lons of freight, coal, etc., would be diverted from Chattanooga and Rome, and could be sent east, south and west.

Milledgeville Wants It.

The people of the old capital city are moving in the matter of securing the Middle Geor-gia and Atlantic. The paper published there says: An air-line route between these two -Atlanta and Savannah-would, beyond a doubt, "split Milledgeville wide open." In order, however, to make a route from Machen, order, however, to make a route from Machen, a station on the Covington and Macon, to Eatonton, it was necessary to leave the airline slightly to the left. The present status, therefore, is this: One of these three routes is open to the new projection. First, deflect from the air-line about ten miles eastward and take in Sparta. Second, continue a straight line from Eatomton to Sandersville and Savannah; and third, to deflect about eight miles to the west and strike this city. Colonel Machen has not yet located his route. He is still figuring on the best and cheapest.

A number of our leading citizens have concluded that a talk with Colonel Machen would be advisable. To that end a committee, consisting of Messrs. Barrett, Case and White have been appointed to do their utmost in this line We believe that if we could get Colonel Machen here, we could give him some data which would operate very powerfully on him, and go far toward convincing him that the considerations for the eight miles deflection considerations for the eight miles deflection are good and valuable ones. Colonel Machen is now in New York. For that reason telegrams sent him Tuesday did not reach him. In the meantime we are not idle, and every possible influence will be brought to bear on him. Of course we are all agreed that the road will be of inestimable benefit to our city. road will be of inestimable benefit to our city. One conservative citizen said it would increase our cotton receipts from ten to fifteen thousand bales. In a variety of ways Milledgeville has been humping herself lately. Good fortune has been with her. Who can say the railroad lightening will not be attracted and yery soon by our superior quality of "mettle". In the following ysspatch tells of Mr. Machen's visit vesterday:

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 2 .- [Special.]-MILLEDGRVILLE, Ga., April 2.—[Special.]—Colonel E. C. Machen was in the city today, and met the board of trade in reference to bringing the Atlanta and Atlantic road to this city. He came from Eatonton on the morning train, and was accompanied by Messrs. Leverett, Hunt and Leonard, of that place. A committee from the board of trade was in conference with him during the greater part of the day. and was accompanied by Messrs. Leverett, Hunt and Leonard, of that place. A committee from the board of trade was in conference with him during the greater part of the day. He expressed himself as being greatly in favor of bringing the road through here, and if the obstacles can possibly be lovercome, the road will pass directly through Milledgeville, The only obstacle in the way is the charter under which the Central road operates, that charter prohibiting a competing line from running within ten miles of that road. On the other hand, if the Atlanta and Atlantic is built, the business of the Central branch from here to Extenton will not pay the expense of the Froad, so it is thought that the Atlania and Atlantic will be able to get possession of that branch. It is understood that Mr. Machen offers a good price for the road to Extenton, while the belief here is that the Central will accept it. A committee has been appointed to work matters up, and there is a strong belief that the city will be tapped by the road.

And Walnut Grove, Too.

The prospects, the Walnut Grove News says, seem to be bright either to extend the street car line from Oxford and equip with a dummy, or to extend the narrow gauge from Lawreneeville to Covington. We see no reason why either of these plans could not be carried out. The country through which the road will pass is extremely level. There will be no water courses to cross, and, besides this, best farming sections in middle Georgia; and as to the question whether the road will pay or not, there cannot be a shadow of doubt. Walnut Grove herself can easily handle 2,000 bales of cotton, and should the road be built from Lawrencevile, should the road be built from Lawrencevile, there will be at least 15,000 bales from Covington to that point. Furthermore, the fertilizers to make that amount of cotton will be no small item. Considering 300 pounds of fertilizers to every bale of cotton, it will amount to 2,250

The people all along the line are anxious for the road and will subscribe liberally. A subscription list was presented to the people of Walnut Grove, and about $6,000 was subscribed. Walnut Grove may be depended on as doing her duty fully. Several of our prosperous citizens have not been seen. If necessary, over $10,009 can be easily raised in this section. The people all along the line are anxious for Athens' New Railroads.

ATHENS, Ga., April 2 .- [Special.]-A perfect outburst of railroad news seized Athens today, and the old town is wrapt in wild enthusiasm over the bright railroad future, that is dawning upon it.

today, and the old town is wrapt in wild enthusiasm over the bright railroad future, that is dawning upon it.

News reached here this afternoon that the first dirt was broken today on the Georgia Carolina and Northern in Madison county. The coutract was let to Mr. T. K. Brown, a contractor from North Carolina and he began work with dead earnest on the grading embraced within the limits of his contract. This takes up the grading at Broad river and brings it six miles towards Athens, making the contracts for grading to extend over the entire line, from Monroe, N. C., to within twenty miles of this city. This is the first dirt ever broken on Madison county's soil to make way for the coming of the railroad train, and the people of that county are wild with rejoicing. They assembled in large crowds at the spot where the work of the two hundred graders as they plowed the soil of Madison county's first railroad. It is said that the force of hands will be largely increased soon, and the work pushed rapidly into Athens. Meantime the civil engineers began their work of, locating the route entrance into Athens this morning, and will, within a few days, settle the course of the final survey through the city. So soon as this is finished they will join the other force of engineers between Jug Tavern and Atlanta.

Another railroad item of interest developed here today, concerning the extension of the Georgia Midland from McDonough to Athens. Mr. E. R. Hodgson received a letter from Colonel Peek, asking him, in behalf of a company of capitalists, to meet them in Atlantanext Monday to hold a railroad meeting about this proposed extension. The work of that meeting seems to have been already arranged, and will result in a special committee of representative citizens of the territory along the route meeting at the Markham house after the railroad meeting and arranging plans for securing the route. This committee, consisting of Messrs. C. R. Hodgson, of Athens; W. L. Peek, of Oconec; B. S. Walker, of Monroe, and others, will visit.

Colonel R. D. Mann, the well known rail-coad ticket agent of this city, has accepted the agency in Atlanta for "Ocean," the leading of marine magazines. It is an illustrated journal of ocean travel, tastily gotten up, and containing valuable information for persons interested in ocean matters. The magazine contains a complete signal code of the merchant vessels of all nations, and a complete register of all steamships sailing between New York and European ports. The colonel will be glad to supply sample copies at his office.

St. Louis, March 28, 1800.—W. H. H. Phelps, Atlanta, Ga.: Dear Sir—A death-blow is aimed at the cotton oil industry of the south by a bill now pending before congress known as the "Conger Lard Bill." The enactment of this bill means loss of employment to thousands of people in the south, and the annual loss of many millions of dollars to the planter. The reasons for opposing this bill are set forth at length in the petition inclosed, which we earnessly request you to circulate and obtain all the signatures possible, and then address and forword it to your representative in the house at Washington.

A BLOODY FIGHT.

Yesterday afternoon Nancy Price and Julia Wimbush, two negro women, became engaged n a fight on an alley on Bell street.

Nancy struck Julia over the head with piece of a skillet, gashing her head in a terrible manner. The blood flowed freely, and both women were arrested. Nancy was locked up, and a case was made against Julia, who was sent away to get her wounds dressed.

Rich, Red Blood.

With rich, red blood coursing through the veins and the heart's action never obstructed by a single particle of blood poison or impurity, mankind ought to live out their full allotted time in ease, and in comfort and perfect health. Old mother earth has furnished fect health. Old mother earth has furnished herbs of healing and strengthening virtue that wonderfully assist nature in keeping the blood pure and clean. Science revealed these herbs to that eminent physician Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky., and they are happily blended in his meritorious compound called Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla. Syphilis and sere ula yield readily to its magic influence, and other symptoms of impure blood, such as pimples, sores, aches, pains, indigestion, weak kidneys, etc., vanish like snow before the noon-day sun. It is the only compound that is absolutely safe to use in cases of bad blood. It never leaves any unpleasant after-effects, and it never leaves any unpleasant after-effects, and it stimulates the whole system, beginning with the very first dose tak

THE WALL GAVE WAY

AND TWO WORKMEN WEBE BURIED

They Were Extricated, But One of Them Dies in a Few Minutes and the Other is Very Badly Hurt

There was a tragedy at the site of a new building on Whitehall street, near Mitchell, yesterday morning at 11:45 o'clock.
A force of about fifteen hands has been at work there for some time, excavating for the foundation of a new building, which is being erccted by Mr. W. P. Inman. The men were tract for the excavation had been let.

In digging down the bank on the north side of the excavation, the workmen have found a great deal of difficulty in breaking the dirt. They have had to dig trenches and drive in wedges, after undermining the portion that they desired to cut down.

Yesterday they began on a section near the middle of the wall, and there were eight or ten men busy with their picks undermining it, preparatory to driving in the wedges from

Mr. A. C. Hayes, superintendent of the job, was standing on the bank watching the work. Some of the hands hesitated and asked if it was safe, and somebody answered that there was no danger.

A DULL RUMBLE and a cloud of dust started the onlookers, and Mr. Hayes felt himself wedged in between a pile of rocks and dirt and the wall. With rare presence of mind, he scrambled out, all bruised and stunned as he was, and hearing the cries of the workmen, rushed to the res and he was removed to his brother's home, nature.

At a late hour Smith was resting as easily as could be expected, and it is thought there is a chance for his recovery.

Mr. Hayes had fallen and sprained his right arm on Tuesday, and the fall injured his legs and wrenched his arm over again. His injuries are painful but not serious.

McGuire's body was taken to Lee's undertaking establishment, on Mitchell street. He has no family, and his body will remain there until some disposition is made of it by his relatives. relatives.

Dr. J. C. Avary, coroner of Fulton county, was notified and summoned a jury to investigate the cause of the death of Columbus McGuire.

After a thorough inquiry into the matter the jury found a verdict of accidental killing.

An examination of the body of the dead man An examination of the body of the dead man showed that in falling he struck the sharp end of a pick which entered his body just above the right hip and entered the abdominal cavity. It is supposed that he suffered internal hemorrhage from the wound inflicted by the pick, as a very small quantity of blood flowed from the wound. Free Ride Today at 3:15 P. M.

RULL indemnity insurance does not become void through any such provision, and THE UNITED STATES MUTUAL ACCIDENT ASSOCIATION which has furnished this form of insurance since its organization, has paid in claims to its preferred members more than twice as much per capita annually as any one of its competitors writing insurance for $12 per year.

LADY OF THE HOUSE > Do you still like our Charter Oak Store as well as when we st got it, Mary?

SERVANT-Ob, every bit as well, Ma'am.

LADY OF THE HOUSE - I am expecting a friend to take dinner with us next week, on purpose show her how nice our stove cooks everything, and I was the cooks are the cooks.

SERVANT—Oh, every bit as well, Ma'am.

LADY OF THE HOUSE—I am expecting a friend to take dinner with us next week, on purpose show her how nice our stove cooks everything, and I want you to have a nice dinner for us SERVANT—indeed I will, Ma'am. There's no trouble to cook nice with that stove. The Vire Gazze Oren Boors makes it so much easier than other stoves I have been used to, we bed luck with bread, biscuits or cake, now.

LADY OF THE HOUSE—Why, how do you explain it?

SERVANT—Well, I don't have to watch everything so close for fear it will burn. You know ow careful you have to be with a bak of custard, it is so apt to burn on top before it is baked rough. The Charter Oak bakes it perfectly without any danger of burning. And then in asting a turkey, I don't have to keep basting it every five minutes. It roasts beautifully brown ithout it, and without drying it up like the tight ovens do. And you know how crisp the switted surface without being hard and tough. You always praised my bisenits, but if it wasn't for hywhere again where they haven't got a Charter Oak Stove originance.
